Revised 10/2025

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Continuing Ministry Formation Program (CMFP) is an advanced formation & credential program for adults seeking faith enrichment, for those who desire to serve in ministerial leadership, and those considering the diaconate. CMFP prepares lay leaders to serve the Church and to support the Pastor in implementing the parish and diocesan vision. Students enroll in either the Adult Faith Enrichment track or the Ministerial Leadership Track.

Based on national certification standards, the program consists of three years of formation covering human, spiritual, intellectual and pastoral dimensions of ministry. The theological formation follows the pattern described below. Monthly Saturday workshops help integrate the human, spiritual, and pastoral formation with the intellectual.

Year 1:

God's Revelation

This year of study explores the themes of God's Revelation as described in the Second Vatican Council's document, the Dogmatic Constitution on Divine Revelation (Dei Verbum) and serves as an introduction to the Hebrew Scriptures and to the New Testament.

Year 2:

The Church History

Beginning with Pentecost, the course surveys the history of the Church through the post-Vatican II era. By exploring significant theological, cultural, and social issues, this year of study will deepen students' understanding of how the Church, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, has grown, evolved and continues the mission of Jesus today.

Year 3:

Systematic Theology

This course serves as an introductory study of the main branches of theology including Christology, ecclesiology, moral theology, sacramental theology and trinitarian theology. Students will study both the historical development and contemporary focus of each branch of theology. While the course focuses on the teachings of the past and present, the purpose is to reflect on how theology impacts an individual's spirituality and ministry today.
